- The number of permit applications is up over January 2007 due largely to an increase in both commercial and residential remodeling.
- Plan Commission and Zoning Board caseloads are down, suggesting a slower year for new projects and major expansions and continuing a trend seen in 2007.
- An RFP was prepared and issued for a downtown architectural pattern book, which will provide historically accurate design elements for possible use during building facelifts and in new construction.

Agenda Item: Comprehensive Plan Priority: Top

NOTE: Staff recommends that several items identified as part of the strategic plan be undertaken only after the Comprehensive Planning Process has been initiated. These items, which include the Neighborhood Infrastructure Plan, 75th Street Cooridor Plan, Ogden Strategy, Butterfield Corridor Plan, and Zoning Code Update, can be accomplished more effectively once the Comprehensive Planning process has estasblished the proper foundation. For this reason, these items will be incorporated into the scheduling of the Comprehensive Planning Process and will likely be undertaken in 2009. Specific activities and redevelopment projects in the geographic areas listed above that require more urgent attention, will be addressed appropriately during 2008.
